

Hungary's first geothermal power plant to start commissioning

The first geothermal power plant in Hungary, the Turawell combined geothermal power and heating plant is about to start commissioning.

KS Orka reports that commissioning procedures are being started for the first geothermal power plant in Hungary.

The Turawell geothermal plant, as we have reported before, will have an installed geothermal power generation capacity of 3 MW and 7 MW thermal heating capacity.

Source: thinkgeoenergy